Media Release for Gilgen Logistics AG – June 9, 2021

Gilgen Logistics Rounds off its Management Board

Ruedi Weber has joined the Gilgen Logistics management board as the head of Customer Service. This means that the top management of this Swiss intralogistics specialist is once again complete and ideally positioned to handle any demands the future may hold.

In early 2020, we set the course for Gilgen Logistics AG's new direction. At that time, Daniel Gilgen became part of this Swiss family-owned company's management board. Succession to the third generation was thus ensured. He has since been in charge of the Systems Business Division. Jakob Gilgen heads the company as CEO and president of the board of directors, while Peter Nussbaum has been in charge of the Finance and Administration Division for some time.

Ruedi Weber is a new member of the Gilgen Logistics management board. He started as head of Customer Service already in February. During his professional career, he has furthered his education in Business Administration and holds an MAS degree in Service Management. At the same time, he brings more than twenty years of experience in senior technical customer service positions as well as having served on management boards in various industries. Ruedi Weber already knows the intralogistics field very well from recent years. Following various organisational changes at Gilgen Logistics, its Customer Service Division, among others, is receiving increased focus. With his wealth of experience, Ruedi Weber can contribute competent and profound know-how to this Swiss intralogistics specialist. This largely completes Gilgen Logistics' restructuring and puts the company in a good position for the future and its ambitious goals.
